A person shall be entitled to a patent unless—

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language,

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

3. Claims 1-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 102(e) as being anticipated by Elenbaas et al. (Elenbaas) patent no. 6,119,123.

4. As to claim 1, Elenbaas teaches the invention substantially as claimed, including a method for improved delivery of content by a communications device to a requesting computer connected to a communications network comprising the steps of:

receiving, from the requesting computer, a request for content and a plurality of content preferences (col. 3 lines 51-65);

receiving a content stream representing the content (figures 6A-E; col. 4 lines 55-59);

grouping components within the content stream based upon at least one of the plurality of content preferences (figure 6E; col. 4 lines 55-59);

reordering the component groups within the content stream based upon at least one of the plurality of content preferences (Abstract, figure 6E; col. 4 lines 55-59); and sending to the requesting computer, the reordered content stream representing the requested content (col. 3 lines 51-65).

5. As to claim 2, Elenbaas teaches at least one of the component groups is compressed (col. 1 lines 14-34).

6. As to claims 3-4, Elenbaas teaches the content stream is HTML or XML content stream (col. 3 lines 51-65).

7. As to claim 5, Elenbaas teaches filtering out content from the content stream based upon at least one of the plurality of content preferences (col. 4 lines 44-59).

8. As to claim 6, Elenbaas teaches the communication device is connected to the communications network using a DSL, analog, cable, wireless or power line modem (col. 1 lines 35-40).

9. Claims 7-15 have similar limitations as claims 1-6; therefore, they are rejected under the same rationale.
